

My idol

The person I've admired since I can only remember is a Japanese manga artist- Rumiko Takahashi.

It is said that she's the most affluent manga artist in whole Japan and the mangas she creates are popular worldwide, being translated into many languages. She's also known as the best selling female comics artist in the history (she has sold over 170 million copies of her works). Her career indeed is impressive- Takahashi has also twice won 'The shougakukan Manga Award' for her masterpieces : 'Urusei Yatsura' in 1980 and again in 2001 for 'Inu-yasha'.

However! I wouldn't call her my idol just for being successful in career. I admire her personality and the way she can create her won world without any obstacles. In my eyes she truly is a great individuality- she magically attracts people to her with her mysterious side. By reading her works we get to learn, step by step, a lot about her. One thing I'm seriously jealous of is her talent for making everyone laugh their heads off with her hilarious jokes.

Her most recent work and my favourite one is 'Inu-yasha'. It is a one of its kind story, because it uses all the genres possible in a plot like romance, action, fantasy, historical fiction, horror, and comedy.

There's no other shining star like her for me. She will always be my one and only idol for providing me so much entertainment for many years. I really want to become like her in the future. :)
