

AMAZING CONCERT

During my short life I've already seen a lot of concerts. There was one which I still remember so clear.

It was the twenty fourth of August – national holiday in Ukraine. Of course, there were some traditional performances, but I was waiting for something different.

I called my friends Tetyana and Julie and we met near the stage. It was only 3 pm, but there were a lot of citizens there.

As the first sang some local singers and local bands. Good rock bits made everybody feel more confident and people started to dance and sing.

When the twilight came at about 10 pm THEY appeared. It was a band called "TIK". People really like them not only because of music they make, but also because of the emotions they bring.

I remember how did they appear. During two minutes there was nothing but silence. A part of audience worried. "What happened?" they asked. And then, the sound of drums cut that silence in the dark. The leader singer said "Hello". Everybody shouted: "Hello!" I still wonder if that noise was heard on the other side of the town.

"TIK" played their best songs and everyone (including me and my friends) sang with them. In my opinion, they had never been so tired, but they did their best to satisfy us.

I was so sorry because I couldn't take any autographs of the members of the band, but it's OK. They left one sign. I can't show it, but it will always be in my memory and in my heart.
