

My dream teacher...? Although everybody thinks that this is one of the easiest topics to write about, I do not find it is at all. I think all students should appreciate what they have.

To start with, most of the teachers in all of school do their best to help us, students, get through this hard time. We all know that this is a really tough period in our lives, because we are constantly changing, we do not know who we are. Teachers try all the time, but it is not their fault that we do not spend enough time on studying.

Moreover, it is definitely not fair that we keep saying what teachers should do or what they do wrong. We are young, we do not know enough about life and teaching to instruct them.

However, teachers should take into account that pupils are not like machines. We are not capable of studying all day and night. We have to have so much homework at the weekends that we almost do not have time for our friends.

To sum up, we should all be thankful to teachers for letting us know about beautiful things the world is consisted of. What I am trying to say is that I do not have imagination of my dream teacher. Teachers can not be perfect, because they are normal people, just like us. If we want to change something we should find a way to do it.
